NOTICE.

IN addition to the documents contained in this and in the previous Part of "The Trevelyan Papers," the Council has had placed in its hands a large mass of family correspondence, principally of the seventeenth century, together with numerous charters; relating, for the most part, to families and estates in the Western Counties, and of much interest to the topographer or local antiquary: of the charters a considerable number has been presented by Sir W. C. Trevelyan to the British Museum, for better preservation, and easier access. Whether any, or what portion of these, it may be expedient hereafter to print, must depend mainly upon the funds the Council may have at its disposal for such a purpose.

^a The latest marginal date in Part I. of "The Trevelyan Papers" is 1551, when the Earl of Southampton made his will, of which we gave a copy (p. 206). We now turn back for a few years, viz., to 1545-6, for the purpose of inserting some valuable particulars from the original book of Sir William Cavendish, who at that date filled the important office of Treasurer of the Chamber to Henry VIII. It is a small folio in a vellum wrapper; and, although apparently kept by a clerk, much of it, including various corrections, is in the hand-writing of Sir William. A very small portion, denoted here by asterisks, has been damaged by damp, and is therefore not legible.

reduced into the olde order and trade, shall not be able to paye any foreyn Warrauntes or Depechis, but onely the bare ordenarye. Therefore it is very necessarye and mete to consider the state of this Office.

The Copie of a brieff Estimate and vewe and declaracion made of the Kinges Mat^{es} Dettes, desperat dettes, and sperat dettes, and dettes, (sic) and whiche be sperat dettes, and not due, as followeth: to the Kinges maiestie and his Councell.

A brefe estimate, vewe, and declaracion of the presente state of the Kinges debtes, made and gathered oute of Sir Brian Tuke's bokes by Sir Will'm Cavendishe, now Thesaurer of the Kinges Chamber, growen upon obligacions, Tailles, and other specialties, aswell in the tyme of the Kinge of famous memory, Henry the vijth, as in the Kinge our sovereigne lordes tyme that nowe is, remayninge in the Treasury of the same Office in the charge and kepinge of the executors of the said Sir Brian Tuke, not as yet delyvered; and for because the said Sir Will'm Cavendishe, nowe Treasurer, is in this some a yonge Officer not longe exercised in the same, and the boke of the said Sir Brian Tuke interlaced, intricked, and in many places dowtfull and uncerteigne howe he maye truely and justely take them,^a hathe compyled this matter as a viewe and breff declaracion wherby his Majestic may neverthelesse perceyve what a charge and burden the said Treasurer shall shortly receyve of specialties, obligations, and tailles, many of them not semyng worthy kepinge as he supposeth, and yet of as greate charge and burden as the beste leviable dettes. And also, for because many of the said obligations and specialties, beyng entrred in the boke of obligations with a visage of a greate debte, semeth by him upon the perusinge and examynacion of the same boke to be of litle or none effect, The humble petition and requeste of the seid Sir Will'm Cavendishe is that, upon consideracions hereafter followinge (yf it shall seme good to the Kinges moste excelent Maiestie), Commissioners, eyther of his highnes moste honorable Councill, or any other whome his grace shall please to name, may peruse, examyn, and trye, whiche be sperat and good debtes, and which been mere desperat and will never revyve, before the seid Treasurer shalbe charged and burdened with the receipt of the said Obligacions, Tailles, or other specialties, so that aswell the said Treasurer, as all the Courte of Surveyors, knowinge the pleasuer of his highnes herein, may, upon reporte made to his Maiestie therof, procede further as to their moste bounden duties shall apperteigne. The grose or totall, bothe good sperat and desperat, conteyned in the said Sir Bryan Tuke's boke here apereth, amounting to the somme of CCCxxij^mlxxciii^{ss}li xiijs x^d.

^a Hence it appears that Sir Bryan Tuke (only Bryan Tuke Esquire in 1529) had left the accounts of his office in great confusion, and that various necessary documents for clearing up the doubts that had arisen were still in the hands of the previous Treasurer's executors.

^a Henry VIII. having died 28 Jan. 1547, Sir W. Cavendish was continued in his office by Edward VI.

A Declaracion made by the Treasurer of the Kinges Chamber, aunswering to the contents of the bill to him directed from Sir Will'm Paget, Knight, one of the Kinges most honorable Counsaill, and Sir Walter Mildemaye, Knight, one of the generall Receyvors of the Kinges Landes, dated the xxixth day of December, 1548.

To the firste.^a There remayneth in the said office in redy mony the said xxixth daye of Decenber above wrytten nothing. The Office being indebted to dyvers and sondry persons in the somme of xiiij^m ⁱⁱ, or therabout, as appereth by dyvers Certificates heretofore made unto the Kinges most honorable Counsaill, as by the same redy to be shewed playnlye appereth at large.

To the seconde. There remayneth in the said office one warraunt for the Clerke of the Kinges stable not yet fully paid by the somme of cvij^s xiiij^s xj^d. Neverthelesse there hathe been brought and shewed within the same office by dyvers persons many warrauntes not receyved for want of monye to aunswer the same.

To the thirde. There hathe been receyved yerely into the said office by two yeres passed, and afore that tyme, of Revenues, Fynes, and other casualties aforesaid into the said office syns the last daye of Marche last past, but onely iiij^m DCCxxxvij^{li} xij^s viij^d, wherof receyved Of the receyvor of the dukedom of Lancaster mmiiij^l ⁱⁱ. Of the receyvor of Wardes and Lyveries M^{li}, and upon Obligacions M^{cc}iiij^{xx} vij^{li} xij^s viij^d.

To the fourth. I cannot certainlye as yet aunswere what the total somme amounteth unto of all the speecyalties and bandes which shoulde remayne in my office and charge, for that I have not receyved them all, beyng but nowe on receyving parte of theym by the executors of Sir Bryan Tuke and the Awditors; and therefore for a perfyt declaracion of this Article it were mete to call the

^a i. e. "to the first" interrogatory or question propounded by Sir William Paget and Sir Walter Mildmay, who had been specially appointed to inquire into the state of the office of Treasurer of the King's Chamber.

Awditors that have perused and made bokes of all the same specialties, and of theym you may knowe the truth. Notwithstanding by a boke remanyng in my office collected by Sr Thomas Moyle and Sr Walter Mildmay, Knightes, and the Awditors, supposed sperate and good, and due at this present day, amounteth to the somme of xxviiij^mixciiiij^{ss}xjⁱⁱ xiiiij^s xid ob. q.

To the fyfte. There is yerely paid in fees, wages, annuyties, and other ordynary paymentes, whiche must contynewe, the somme of xxv^mcccⁱⁱ, wherof paid monthly DCⁱⁱ, quarterly MMMDⁱⁱ, and half yerely MMⁱⁱ; wherof in fees duringe lief, having there begynnyng in the tyme of the said Sr W^m Cavendishe, amounteth to the somme of iiij^cljⁱⁱ xviiij^s vjd. And in fees during pleasure, having there begynnyng in lyke maner in the tyme of the said Sir Will^m Cavendishe, amounteth to the somme of MCCCiiij^{ss}xixⁱⁱ ijs. And xxiiij^mcccxlviijⁱⁱ xix^s vjd in other fees and annuyties not knowen to the said Sr Will^m Cavendishe whether thei be during pleasure or lief, whiche fees some had there begynnyng and were paid afore in the tyme of Sr Thomas Wyat,^a Sir Brian Tuke, and Sr Anthony Rous, late Treasurers there. The patentés for the whiche remayne not in the said office. But for discharge of payment of the said sommes to theim by the said Sr Will^m Cavendishe in lyke manner as there was before his tyme, there remayneth in the said office a warraunt signed with thand of our late sovereigne Lorde King Henry theight. Also ther is paid to Ambassadors, the Comysioners of the Marches of Wales, and other that must cease, MMⁱⁱ.

^a Hence we learn that Sir Thomas Wyatt, the poet, had filled the office of Treasurer before Sir Brian Tuke and Sir Anthony Rous. That Sir Henry Wyatt had been so is known.

^a Mary ascended the throne on the 6th July, 1553, and filled it alone until 25th July, 1554. Lady Jane Grey had assumed the crown on the 6th July, and continued to be called Queen by her supporters until the 17th of the same month. Sir W. Cavendish's accounts contain no notice of her usurpation, but he was continued in the place of Treasurer of the Chamber under Mary, and under Philip and Mary. This is from the Trevelyan of the one parte, and John Harrys, esquier, decessid, late one of the Kynges majestie serjiaunts at law, of the other parte, beryng date the vijth day of Aprell, in the fyfte yere of the raigne of our Sovereaigne Lord the Kyng that now is, amonge dyvers and sundry Covenantes, graunts, and aggrements, had made and concludyd bitwene us aswell concernyng the mariage then to be had bitwene John Trevelylian, my son and heire apparent, and Willmote Harrys, doughter of the said John Harrys, as the declaracion of the use and possession of all and syngular Manors, Messuages, landes, tenementes rentes, reversions, suych and other heredytamentes of me the said John Trevelyan, hyt is provyded that hit shall and may be lawfull for me the said Trevelylian to make and declare my last Wyll and testament of all and singuler my said Manors, londes, tenementes, and other hereditamentes, being no parcell of the londes lymytted by the said former endenture for the Joynter of the said Wilmote, nor of the londes appoynted to the said John Harrys for ten yeres, aswell for the preferment of the mariage of my daughters, wherby every of theym with the issues and proffettes therof may be well and truly contentyd and paid of the summé of two hundred markes towards their mariage, if they be not otherwyse advauncyd or preferred in my lyef, as for the payment of my lawfull dettes as by the said former indenture more playnely may appere. Know you therefore that the said John Trevelylian being at the making of this my last Wyll concernyng the disposicion of all my said Manors, messuages, londes, tenementes, and other hereditamentes not lymyted or appoyntyd for the Joynter of the said Wilmote, nor to the said John Harrys for the terme of ten yeres afore rehersed, in good helth and perfett memorie, lauded be God, and neverthelesse subject to deth most certeyn, the tyme wherof is most uncerteyn, do make and declare my said last Wyll concernyng my said Manors, londes, tenementes, and other hereditamentes not lymyted and appoyntyd as afore is rehersed, in maner and forme folowyng, that is to wete: Ferst, y wyll be[queth] and by these presentes do bequeth unto Mawde my wyf all and synguler my said Manors, mesuages, londes, tenementes, and other hereditamentes not lymitted or appoyntyd as before is rehersed, nor lymyted nor appoyntyd to the Joynture of the said Mawde untill that she have with the issues and profettes of the same well and truly contentyd and paid all and synguler my lawfull dettes, and, after my said dettes well and truly contented and paid, untill that she have leyved and recevyd therof the full summe of two hundred markes over and above all charges, and repryses for the preferment of every of my daughters not preferred or advaunced to mariage at the tyme of my deth, if they be maried by the advyse and counsell of my said wyeff the same money to be delyvered to my said daughters or their howsboundes by my said wyef or her executors, at such tyme or tymes as my said wyef shall thynk best or most convenyent. And, if my said wyef shall happyn to dye, which God forbode, before all my said daughters, or any of theym, shall be preferred or advaunced to mariage, then I wyll, and by these presents do bequeth unto Gyls Strongwyse, knight, and John Wadham, esquier, son and heire of Sir Nicholas Wadham, knyght, decessyd, and Baldwyn Hill, clerk, if they be then lyvyng, and to their heires and assignes, as well all and synguler my said Manors, londes, tenementes, and other hereditamentes, appoyntyd unto my said wyef for her Joynture, as all other my said Manors, messuages, londes, tenementes, and other heredytamentes not lymyted nor appoyntyd as before is reheryd in the said former endenture, untill they or their heires have with the issues and profettes of the same well and truly contentyd and paid all synguler my lawfull dettes not contentyd and paid by my said wyef or her executors. And, after my said dettes well and truly contentyd and paid, untill they or their heires have recevyd and leyved therof the residue of the two hundred markes not leyved by my said wyef for and towards the preferment of the mariage of every my said daughters not preferred by my said wyef, if they be maried by the advyse and counsell of the said Sir Gyls, John Wadham, and Baldwyn Hill, or their heires, or the moste parte of theym, the same money to be delyvered and paid to my said daughters or their husbondes at such tyme or tymes as the said Sir Gyls, John Wadham, and Baldwyn Hill, clerk, or their heires, shall thynk best and most convenient by their discrecions. In witnesse wherof, to every parte of these endentures I have put my Seale and subscribyd my name, the xth day of August in the fiftē yere of the raigne of our Sovereigne Lord, Edward the vjth, by the grace of God of Englund, Fraunce, and Hirlond Kyng, Defender of the faith, and under God of the Church of Englund and also of Irlond the supreme hed.

pleas at Westminster, ageynst the said John Trevilian, of the manors of Nettelcom, Rowdon, and Wodeaunt, in the said county of Somerset, and all other the mesuages, lands, tenements, and hereditaments of the said John Trevilian in Nettelcom, Rowdon, Woodeaunt, Colton, Chiddesley, Woodhouse, Escott, Capton Vellers, Curden, and Yerd, in the said county of Somerset, to geder with thadvowson of the Church of Nettelcom aforesaid. Thentent, consideration, and very cause of the said recoverie so to be hadde is such that the recoverers, immediatly uppon such recovery hadde and executed, shall stand to be seased of and in all the said maners, mesuages, lands, tenementes, medowes, losenes, pastures, woods, commons, rentes, reversions, and emcions, and all other hereditamentes mentioned in the said recovery, to such uses and intents hereafter ensuyng, that is to say, to the use and behove of the said John Trevilian for the terme of his lyfe, without impechement of any wast. And that also the said John Trevilian at all tymes duryng his liff to have full power and auctoritie to make leasses and estates for terme of liff, liffes, or yeres, of the premisses or of any parcell thereof, reserving uppon every such lease and estate by hym to be made the olde usuall rentes, as now, or at any tyme within this xx yeres last paste, were usually paid and borne for the same. Provided alwayes that these articles last mencioned shall not extend to geve auctoritie to the said John Trevilian to make any leasses of the mansion house and parke of the maner of Nettelcom, nor of the demeanes belongyng to the same, for any longer terme then for his owne liff. And after the deceasse of the said John Trevilian to the use of Mawde Trevilian, now wif of the said John Travilian, duryng the lif of the said Mawde, if the said Mawde doe after the death of the said John Trevilian remayne soole and unmarried, as the saide Mawde by her especiall desire and request hath so desired. And, after the deceasse of the said Mawde Trevilian, or her estate determyned, then to the use of John Trevilian, the sonne and heire apparent of the said John Trevilian the father, and to theires of the bodye of the said John Trevilian the son, lawfully procreate. So that the said John Tre-vilian the sonne and his heires of his body do permitte and suffre all such leases and grauntes of the premisses or any parte therof to them made by the said John Trevilian the father, as before is mentioned, quietly to hold and enjoy ther interests and estates according to the purporte and tenor of ther seid leasses and grauntes made, without any unlawfull expulsion therof, so the seid lessees be not made without empechement of wast, nor the olde accustomed rentes decayed or mynysshed. And, if it fortune the said John Trevelyan the son to dye without issue of his bodye, then to the use of John Trevilian, second son of the said John Trevilian thelder, and to theyres of his body lawfully procreate, with like proviso and condition for assurance of the interest, and of the lessees and grauntees of the said John Trevilian the father, as before mentioned. And if it fortune the said John Trevilian, the second son, to dye without issue of his body lawfully procreate, then to the use of theires of the body of the said John Trevilian the father; and, for lak of such issue, to the use of the right heires of the said John Trevilian the father for ever, to hold of the chief Lords of the fee by the servys therof due. * Thomas Bonevile or Bonville was probably a relative of William Lord Bonville, who was beheaded 39 Hen. VI. Perhaps his uncle, a brother of his father John, named in the will of his grandfather Sir William Bonville, made in 1407, and printed in Collectanea Topographica et Genealogica, viii. 244. The same person appears in 1422 as witness to a deed between the Abbot of Newenham, co. Devon, and Alice widow of the above Sir William. Ibid. 246. The pardon is on parchment, with the Great Seal in white wax attached.

^a In the original from which our copy is taken there is a label for the seal, and blanks are left for the date of the day and month, but the year of the king's reign is given. The Duke of Suffolk was John de la Pole, son of William Duke of Suffolk and Alice daughter and heir of Sir Thomas Chaucer. John was married to Elizabeth, second daughter of Richard Duke of York, and was consequently brother (in law) to Edward IV. as designated in the letter to him from that king written in favour of the claim of John Trevelyan, and already printed by this Society in Trevelyan Papers, Pt. I. p. 82. These we may add the subsequent document, likewise on parchment, and derived, like the other documents, from the family records:—

Jhs.

Master Crumwell. After most hartie recommendation, with like thankses for your manyfold kyndenes. Thys is to advertise yow of ^a The original Letter of Attorney is dated 21 Oct. 19 Hen. VIII. and what follows is indorsed upon it.

^b From the original, entirely in the handwriting of the Chief Justice, preserved in the State Paper Office. It was not usual at that period to give the date of the year, but it was the resceit of your gentill letter send me by the servaunt of Mr. Trevelyan, whiche hade resceyvede a Privey Seale apon payn of allegeaunce, before the comynge of your letter to me, and was yn his journey toward London, so that iffe his fortune be goode, he may kepe his apparaunce; hartily praying yow to be gode master to hym. Trew it ys there is moche labour made ageyn hym by mean of the wiffe of a gentleman yn thies parties callide Mr. Hill, whos doffter is maryed to the son of the saide Trevelyan; wherfore sche wold bynd hym to certen thynges other than be compriside yn ther indenture of mariage, wherof sche hathe nor wretynge ne yet proffe; but the verie trouthe this Trevelian is not the wyseste man, ne yett of a seurtie no ydeott, but a man off litill discretion, and not broken, but hath allwey lyved at home withowte any brekyng. And bycause he wold not folowe the mynd off the gentlewoman sche hathe made this labour ageyn hym, more as I suppose to prove hym a ydeotte than for eny truste of her bargeyn. Iff he be a ydeotte, on my feythe I wold the Kyngges Heighnes hade righte of hym. How be it, seurlly iffe he be examined accordyng to the Statute he will not be provide ydeote, as yn that mater ye knowe what ye have to do, and so do I iffe I were with yow. But for the residue of the mater I hartely pray yow do as ye have written and he schall seurlly deserve your payn. As to my self, I am the moste unhappie creature lyvyng, that syns my Soverayn Lord wold have me to do hym servyce, that by reason of this unhappie ynfirmytie I kan not be able to cum to the place wher I schueld do hym servyce. For by the feythe I owe to God and to his Grace, how be it I am moste unable to do His Grace servyce of any of his Justices, yett iff I were able to labour I wold seurlly, God willyng, bee among yow, and do the best I kowde; but, by the othe I have made byfore, I am not able to take suche a journey withowte moche perill off my probably 1533, before Crumwell became Secretary to the King. Mr. Trevelyan was John, who married Avice Cockworthy; he died in 1546; his son John, born in 1508, married Maud, daughter of Gyles Hyll and Agatha Brent: a pedigree of this family of Hyll is given in Collectanea Topog. et Geneal. vol. i. p. 409.

life. And if I were ther yett I kowde not goo withowte a staff, so that the absens fro my Soverayn Lord at this tyme grevithe me more than my ynfirmite. And yett on my feythe dyvers tymes in my sikenes I wold have yeven all the litill gode I have to have bene easide off my payn. Gentill Master Crumwell, now I have made yow my gostely fader yn this mater, more specially than I have wreten to eny man lyvyng, hartely praying you to make my excusse to my Soverayn Lord, as ye shall see tyme. And I schall dayly pray for His Grace, and iffe I die and never cum at London, yet I schall so deserve parte of your payn that ye shall be content by Goddes mercy, who preserve you.

At my poor howse the 8th day of Marche [1533].

THE PILGRIMAGE OF GRACE. PETITION OF WALTER COURTENAY A. D. 1536.
TO THE KING FOR CERTAIN MANORS.^a

To the King our liege Lord.

In most humble wyse sheweth unto your highness your trew and feithfull subgett and liegeman Water Courteney knyght, that when he beyng in your service in the parties of Brytaign and Fraunce

^a What was called "The Pilgrimage of Grace" occurred in 1536, and assumed the character of a rebellion: in it John Lord Scrope was implicated, and from the above document it appears that he had committed some ravages upon the property of Walter Courteney, in Devonshire, the latter being nearly related, if not brother, to Henry Courteney, Marquis of Exeter, and to Peter Courteney, Bishop of that diocese. Walter Courteney appealed to the King, set forth his losses by Scrope and his "affinity," and claimed certain manors in Essex and Devonshire to re-imburse him. We may perhaps presume that the parties to whom the manors belonged, and who are named in the instrument, were of the "affinity" of John Lord Scrope. See Stowe's Chron. edit. 1615, p. 967, and Lord Herbert of Cherbury's Henry VIII., in Kennet, vol. ii. p. 207. The original is on parchment.

had his goodis and catellis within your Countie of Devonshire despoyled and taken away by John Lord Scrope of Bolton and other of his affinite to the great losse and extreme hurte of the seide Water without your especiall grace to hym shewed in that behalf, wherefore please it your highnes, the premises considered, and that the seid Water is and all tymes hath bene your trew and feithfull subgett and liege man and soo shall endeavour hym self to your pleásur unto the uttermost of his power, to graunt unto the seid Water your gracious lettres patentes in dewe forme to be made after the tenure ensuyng, and he shall pray unto Almyghty God for the prosperous preservacion of your most Royall estate.

CONTROVERSY BETWEEN JOHN AND HUGH TREVELYAN.*

Yt maye please your L.shepp, Touchinge the staye of the Nisi prius betwene they two Trevelians, yf it had bine movid in the tyrme time, yet might have bine grauntted without offence to justice, but nowe after the terme I maye not grant any supersides to stay the same, unlese yt had procedid erroneuslie, and sethens I was justice I never grauntted any; and albeit I ame verye lothe to writ to staye procidinges in lawe, yet at your L.shepes motion I have writen a fre to the Justices of Assises ther, so as yt plese your L.shepes and my L. Keper writ also. The justices biginne not ther circuit as I hier as yet this xxth dayes; yt shalbe good the partie travell to them presently to knowe ther myndes therin, and returne ther aunswer to your L.shepe; and yf they will not concent therunto, then I thinke no doubte but upon your L.shepes fres againe thei will procede, acordinge to your L.shepes last mosion in your fre, to have the principall gentellmen of the impannell to pase therin; and so take my leve of your good L.shepe. Cambbridge, this xxiiijth of July, 1576.

I send to your L.shepe the fre I writt to the Justices herin closed, to that end your L.shepe should perceve the contence therof.

Your L. moste bounden all waye at commandment,
CHRISTOPHER WRAYE.

After my hartye commendacions to you bothe, Her Mat^{tie} comitted a cause in contreversie betwene the tow Trevelians to my L. Keper and my L. Tresurer and myselfe; my L. Tresurer and I harde the same in Hyllerye terme in the absens of my L. Keper, and in the laste terme my L. Keper, my L. Tresurer and I hard the same

* The first of these three official letters (all cotemporary copies) was addressed by Sir C. Wray, Chief Justice of the Court of Queen's Bench, to Lord Burghley, with a copy of the second, "herein closed," to Justices Roger Manwood, puisné judge of the Common Pleas, and John Jeffries, puisné judge of the Queen's Bench; and the third was written by Lord Burghley to the same two puisné judges. They probably relate to a suit at law, recorded in Plowden's Commentaries, regarding the estate brought into the family by Avise Cockworthy; for an abstract of which see Hodgson's History of Northumberland, Part 2, vol. i. p. 273, note 9 b.

agayne; and, havinge an intention finallye to ende the same, dyd finde some wante of confermite in Hughe Trevelian, and yet hopinge of his concent ther unto, did forbearc to sertifye her Mat^e of our procedinges therin, and so the mater restethe till the next terme, myndinge then ether finallye to ende it to ther contentations, or els make certificatt to her Highnes of our opinions in the same; but we all consideringe the wightines of the cause, the difycultnes did arise upon the hiringe therof, the tediousnes of the matter, and sundrye trialles had therin, some of one part, and some of another, thought it more fitte to be tried at Westminister then in the countrie, wher ye have small tym for so longe a mater: and declared our opinions to the parteis accordingly; wher upon John Trevelyan hathe foreborene to make anye provision for the same, as he seathe, and Hughe Trevelyan hath taken out an nysiprius, mindinge to trie it at the Assises; for which causes I, thinkinge ye shoulde doe verye well to move Hugh to staye, yf he will not abydde our orders as we hoped he woulde, yet to staye his nysiprius, and take it triable in banke the next terme, who, havinge warninge therof, nowe takethe noe great deley or hendrance therby. To this effecte, I thinke, my L. Treserer will writte to you also, and so bidd you hartyllye farewell. Cambridge, this xxiiijth of Julye, 1576.

The document sufficiently explains itself; and it is to be remembered, with reference to the subject to which the paper relates, that Harington and Dr. Lopez were both executed in this year, the first as a seminary priest, educated in France and Italy, and the second for an attempt on the Queen's life, in order to accomplish the objects of the Roman Catholics in the restoration of their religion. Among the papers preserved at Nettlecombe was the original draft of the Bill of Charges against Dr. Roger Lopez for high treason in 1593, which has been presented by Sir W. C. Trevelyan to the British Museum.

THE STATE OF IRELAND.

Advertisement of the xvjth of September, 1595.^a

A.D. 1595.

The realme is devided into fowre provinces: viz. Ulster, Conocke, Mounster, and Leinster.

Ulster. The fowrth of this month S^r John Norris, L. generall of her Maiesties forces hear, beinge comminge from Armath with her Majesties armye then with him from the victuallinge of the garrisone ther, hee was encountered with the traitor the Earle of Tiron and the northern rebells in that part of Ulster wher the trayterouse Earle lyeth. In which conflict S^r John Norris horse was shott in fowre tymes and him self shot in twise with bullet: viz. once in the arm, and thother tyme in the lower part of the bellye glauncinge. The charge was upon the rereward, where hee, S^r Thomas Norris, and all the brave men horse and foot, weare. The traytors toke them upon great advantaige by a wood sied, sufferinge the fore ward and the battell to passe. The generale, percevinge his horse thus hurt to faint under him, and beinge himselfe hurt as afore said, tould his brother S^r Thomas Norris, "I have," quoth he, "a ladies hurt. I praie, brother, make this plase good yf you love me, and I will new horse miselfe and retorne presentlie; and I praie charge home." With that S^r Thomas, with a brave troupe of horse men, one hundred of those that bee under the L. generall, charged, in which charge S^r Thomas was shott through the left thiegh, and lost about nyne of his horse men and some few horse in that skirmishe. Wee lost in all about thertye, and the traitors lost ther found dead 60. In thend they fled, and the generall kept the field all night. My cosane Robt. Napp, who is on of S^r Thomas prinsipall horsemen, was that daye unhorsed, and he unhorsed the other whom he assaulted, and hand to hand he killed his adversarie, and was rescued by one Captaine Gremes, and so horsed agane. He receved a little hurt in one of his armes with a Scottish arrowe. In that part of Ulster where the Earle of Tiron traytorouslie pretendeth domynione, and generalli over all the rest, is the p^t generall with those forces. Neyther S^r John Norris nor S^r Thomas have any daungerous hurt. All this provinst of Ulster is in rebellion, which is more in myne opinyon then the fowrth part of the kingdome. Where the generall lieth ther bee three that taketh on them princeli government ther: viz., the traiterous Earle, McQuire, O'donell, and all the rest in that provinst ar adherentes unto them.

Conocke. Towchinge the provinst of Conocke, wherin S^r Richard Bingham is cheef comissioner, which bordereth uppon McQuire and O'donell, a great part of that province have of latt devolted and been in actuall rebellion, as the countie of Sligo, the countye of Letrym, and the countie of Mayo, whereby most of that provinst is laid wast. The castle of the countie of Sligo, by which the passaige is over a gret water in to Odonell's countrie, was fowre months past taken from S^r Gorge Bingham, and he murdered by some of his Irish sodiers which had secretlie confederated with Odonell, and so kept the same castle for Odonell, by which he maketh incursions into that provinst with great forces. John Martine was taken prisoner ther, but was restored for the brother and mother of the betraier of the castle, and is in health, all though it was advertised unto us that he was slaine. S^r Richard Bingham hathe now supplies from hence of eleven bands of foot and thre hundred horse, bee syeds the ayd of the countrie. Yf hee had not byne ayded from the statt heere, who do resied in the province of Limster, all that provinst had byne lost er this, for thei have had an exceedinge mislike of S^r Richard. The causes be diversly alleaged.

S^r Richard Bingham hath twice attempted to take the castle againe; but the last tyme he lost 30 men, as it was certified, and hath yet left it. The castle is not of so great importaunce, for ther be dyvers fords in the somer besyeds over the water.

S^r Richard Bingham dothe presentelie set forth a new expedition, whether into Odonells contrie or not is left to his consideracion. Odonell was in that province of latt, and S^r Richard thought to have intercepted him in his way home ward, but by reasonne he marched daye and night and hasted awaie, and for that our forces came hence but then, and went a longe jorneye, and, beinge before wearied, could not march so fast for wearinesse, and so Odonell escaped; other wise I thinke S^r Richard Bingham, uppon those advantages and streaightes which he might have taken, had utterlie descomfited him, who now standeth allmost as stronge with the ayd of McSwynes, and of certaine Scottes which he hiered, and with the help of the traitors of Conocke, as the traytor the Earle.

This Odonell nor his forces wear with th'Erle all tymes of this conflict with the L. Generall; but he with all his forces was either then or not to daies before in Conocke, and had a distincte force.

Thus have I left too of our armies, the on attendinge the Lord Generall upon the borders of Tiron against th'Erle the traitor, and thother under the conduct of S^r Richard Bingham in Conocke, which be such forces as I have wrytten, besids the ayd S^r Richard hath of the province. Soe I thinke he ys fifteene hunderd fote stronge, and 400 horse. My countryman Mr. Roberte Williams ys now, the xth of this moneth of September, gon to S^r Richard Bingham—I was muche against yt. God speede him well, hee is a very forward yonge gent. I have assured him hee shall want nothinge.

The province of Monster.—Now, althoughe S^r Thomas Norrice, vice-president of Monster, bee absent, yet that provynce is very quiett.

The province of Lymster.—In this provynce of Lymster, beinge the pale and hart of the realme, the L. Deputye and the state lye. Here was one Fitz McHew, a base fellowe who hath byn theise 30 yeares a great disturber of those parts, whoe dwelled within xxiiij miles of Dublyn. A sharpe prosecucon hath byn made against him, and hee, flyinge still to the woodds and boggs, will never fight, but burne villages and murder, whoe now, by reason of theise warres in the north, uppon his humble peticon wee have taken into mercye uppon proteccion for somme 3 monethes untill her Maiesties pleasure bee knowen.

Because the traytors of Ulster may chuse to fight with which of the Armyes they will, or else may leave both and enter the pale. Therefore my L. Deputy himselſe in person went about seaven dayes past in person to defende the borders of the pale, and hath with him about twelve hunderd foote and 300 horse, and the c. horse which came over with Captayne Dyringe (Deering) doe accompany my L. Deputy.

Before the L. Deputyes departure the domesticall troubles that troubled us nere the cytye were pacified.

^b Who "my master" may have been, is not specified, but it was probably some member of the Willoughby family, as, at the back of the slip containing the inventory, if we may so call it, is written, in a different hand, "John Willoughbie his booke," an imitation of the signature of Queen Elizabeth, and several Latin mottoes.

^c For "Saclyfs" we ought probably to read Sutcliffe's, a controversial divine whose earliest work, we believe, appeared in 1591, viz. his "Treatise of Ecclesiastical Discipline." Next year he published his "Answer to a certain Libel, &c.;" and, in 1595, the year when this account bears date, his "Answer to Job Throckmorton." These might be the very "three books" mentioned in the account.

^a "For peyrce Pennyles" can only refer to Thomas Nash's famous tract, "Pierce Penneless his Supplication to the Devil," six times printed in 1592, and often afterwards, on account of its extreme popularity.

^b "Tarlton's Jests" must have been originally printed soon after the death of that most distinguished actor in 1584, but no edition of the book is known until many years afterwards, viz. in 1611. We may presume that all the earlier copies were destroyed by the thumbs and fingers of careless readers. It was also reprinted in 1630, but the book in any form and of any date is a great rarity. It was reprinted by the Shakespeare Society in 1844.

^c This item may refer either to the fee paid to Dr. Smyth for giving an opinion upon the contents of a urinal, or it may mean that 12*l.* were laid out for conveyance upon the Thames—probably the former.

^d This item must relate to the purchase of an early copy of the well known work, "Robin Goodfellow, his mad Prankes and merry Jests," the first edition of which now known is dated 1628. That it was printed in 1590, or even earlier, can be abundantly proved, and here we see it mentioned in 1595 as having been bought in London. There was, however, a ballad in the form of a chap-book, then also in existence, under the title of "The merry Pranks of Robin Good-fellow, very pleasant and witty."

^e This is the most valuable entry in the whole of the account, since it proves incontestibly that the old "Historie of Hamblet," upon which Shakespeare founded his tragedy, was in a printed shape in 1595. The only known copy of it bears the date of 1608, five or six years after the play by our great dramatist was brought out. The subject was then unquestionably not new upon the stage, for Nash speaks of a tragedy called "Hamlet" as early as 1587, and we know that in 1594, the year before the date of this account, a "Hamlet" (not Shakespeare's) was acted at Newington Butts theatre.

THE EARL OF ESSEX AND TYRONE.

7th of September, 1599.^b

My Lo. Lifenant Generall of the kingdome of Irelande beinge one A.D. 1599.

In another paper of an earlier date appointing watchers from each of the neighbouring hundreds it is stated, "Provided alwayse, that none shalbe taken to watch except he cometh withe bowe, arrowes, or suffycient armor or weapon."

At a short distance from the village of Seaton is a spot called "Bombshot Green," so named, according to tradition, as a place where stones were chipped into form to be used as shot for the cannon on the Burrow or fort of Seaton, which was on a natural mound of red marle above the beach, but which has since been much reduced by encroachments of the sea.

^a This paper, only existing, we believe, in a manuscript of the time, from which we copy it, bears date in 1598, and is entitled, "A copy of a Lybell by the Prentyses of London." It does not appear in our chronicles out of what circumstances it arose.

^b In his account of the rebellion of the Earl of Tyrone at this period, Moryson (ii. 38) his marche into the north parte of the realme, whereas my Lo. was mett by tow messengers sente from the Earle Terron. The force of theire message was that the Erle Terron woulde earnestly entreate his Lo. to parle with hime, which at the firste my Lo. Generall refused, biddinge hime battaill; but the Earle of Terron desired that, of his honorable favour, his Lop. woulde heare hime firste speake. They were distante betweene two hilles verie highe, both theire foreces beinge, one under thone side of the one hille, and thother on the other hille, the two hilles were some 2 miles distante asunder; my Lo. generall came rydinge from his forces downe, and the Earle Terron in like sorte, and before he came neare my Lo. generall by 12 scoore paces he was uncovered; and, after he had don his humble dutie to my Lo. generall, he began as foloweth.

"My honorable good Lo., sithe it is not unknown unto yo^r Lop. howe I married the sister of S^r Henrie Bagnall, and livinge togeather, because I did affecte two other gentellwomen she grewe in dislicke with me, forsooke me, and wente unto her brother to complayne uppon me to the counsell of Ireland, and did exhibit articles againste me. Uppon this they sente for me; and, because I came not at theire firste sendinge, they proclaymed me trayter, before I never ment to goe out, and so then I had noe other reamedie but goe out to save my heade; and so ever sithence I have beene in this rebellion; and never since hath theire beene, untill the cominge of your Lop. ani debutie that I did dare to put my life into his hands; but, my honorable good Lo., my love to my dreade the Queenes gives a brief notice of this meeting between him and the Earl of Essex; but he does not relate the conversation, and omits the names of the commissioners appointed to arrange a peace. They are found in the present document, and the whole transaction is related with curious particularity, apparently by a person who was either himself present, or had his information from one who was. The author of "The Lives of the three Earls of Essex," 8vo. 1853 (vol. ii. p. 71,) does not give the same names as members of the commission, and Stowe supplies no information on the subject. The list of the knights slain in battle, or who died in their beds, is also new. Among the captains slain the name of Rich occurs, but this must be a mistake, (unless there were two officers of the name,) for Capt. Barnabe Rich survived his services in Ireland for many years.

THE LORD MOUNTJOYE'S LETTER TO THE COUNSAYLE OF DUBLYN.^a

A.D. 1601.

After our right hartie commendations to your lordship and the reste, wee doubt not but that you have longe since hearde that, firste O'donnell, after him Tyrone, and lastely Tyrrell, with all the forces they could make, are drawne hither to relieve the Spaniards in Kinsale, and to force us to raise our seige. They have laine before us a good while incamped in a fastnes betweene the campe and Corke; and had gotten a good parte of the Spaniards that landed lately at Castle Haven to joyne with them. Upon Xtnas Even, beinge the 24th of December, in the morning before day, they were by our scouts discovered to be marchinge towards the towne in good order of battle, with the whole force of horse and foot; havinge agreed, as since wee heare, that, about the breake of day,

^a We are not aware that this communication has ever been published. It is from a contemporary copy preserved at Nettlecombe, but where the original is deposited is not stated, but most likely among the archives of the Irish Privy Council. The indorsement is precisely the same as the above title.

Tyrrell with the vantgard, amongst whome were the Spaniards, should put betwene the Earl of Thomond's quarter and the weste forte, where Don John, with all the Spaniards in the toune, had promised to meete them, and goe upon the other campe; and at that instant Tyrone's two other bodies (which were the battle and the reere) should have sett upon this camp, which they thought their numbers greate enough to doe, assuringe themselves they should be able to make shorte worke of yt, and that none of us should have escaped; but so it hath pleased Almighty God, to whome wee wholly ascribe it, that not above 3 or 400 of our horse, and 2,000 of our foot, beinge drawne out to incounter them (for no more wee could well spare, leavinge our campes well guarded), made them retreat; whome wee followed about two miles from our campe, and in the end charged them verie resoluteley upon a forde where they made a stand with there whole force, and gave them presently an overthrowe, makinge theire horse and foote to run away, being not lesse then 5,000, and the killing, as wee judged, of about 1,200 of them, and the taking of ix. of the cullors where the Spaniards were, who were moste ether slaine or taken; and, since it is affirmed by one that came from them, that themselves account they loste 1,000 men, and had 7 or 800 hurte, besides the losse of there armes, which could not be lesse then 2,000; and had not the wether bene extreeme foule, and our horses weake and not of harte, that wee could no longer followe the execution, being drawne almost two miles from the place where the first charge was given, for so farr wee had followed them, still killinge, wee might have done what more wee could have wished, for they never made any resistance, or looked backe, but were utterly broken. Wee are confident wee shall be no more troubled with those men upon plaine ground; but that wee may now goe on with our busness for the takeinge of the towne, and hope in God to carrie it within a short time, and have thought fit to signifie so much to you, to whome wee knowe it will be verie wellcome newes, that you may [join] with us in givinge God thanks for so greate a blessinge, and in makinge publique testimony thereof, and impart-inge it unto such as are well affected, that they may also doe the like. And so wee bid your Lordship and the reste right hartely well to fare. From the Campe before Kinsale, the xxvijth of December, 1601.

COMMISSION FOR COMPOSITIONS.*

After our very harty commendations. Whereas her Matie fynding her loving subiects much troubled and grieved with sundry warrants and books of concealments graunted in reward for servyce unto many of her faythfull subiects and servaunts, with a spetyall care of her highnes part to doe good unto the present tennant in possession. And forasmuch as shee hath since understood that by some persons a contrary course hath bene taken, to the great grief and preiudyce of her people, it hath pleased her Matie to make stay of all such warrants and books, and now to graunt a commission under the great seale of England unto us, commaunding us by vertue thereof to shew all convenyent favour wee may and with speed to dispatche any her Maties subiects that shall seeke a composition at our hands, and reformation of any lettres pattents or other graunts wherein there is any misprision or other defect in the same; And for that the mannor of Shyrford, parcell of the Pryorye of St. Nicholas in Exeter, in the county of Devon, was preferred unto us to be rated by a stranger, upon discoverie of a good tytle which her Matie hath thereunto; and wee, being infourmed that the same is in your possession, have made stay thereof untill wee might advertize you, who by her Maties gratyous meanyng is to have the preferment for

After my hartie commendatons. On Wednesday laste the fourteenth of this moneth I receaved letters from the Rt. Honorable the Lord Ambassador of Bohemia, directed not only to myselfe, but to other the Lords, the Sherife, the Deputy Lieutenants, the Justices of the Peace, the gents, and others of the county of Somerset, on the behalfe of the Kinge of Bohemia, touching a loane of money to be had out of the sayd county, which letters I have here enclosed sent you, desiring that you will (for the reasons therein expressed, and for the better manifestation of your zeale, and affections to so good a worke) not only shewe your readines to give good satisfaction herein, but allsoe use your best endeavours to stir up others to doe the like. Thus, not doubting of your performance of the contents of these sayd enclosed letters, I commit you to God, and rest your very loving frende, CIRCULAR LETTER FROM THE EMBASSADOR OF THE KING OF A.D. 1620.

BOHEMIA.

Right Hoble. and my very worthy friends.

I neede not here remonstrate unto you the state of the affaires of the Kinge of Bohemia my master, for the fame thereof is soe publike and your affections soe good to the welfare of your soveraignes children, that you cannot be ignorant thereof; insomuch as I doubt not but you are partakers of the generall joye and gladnes for those manifold blessings and prosperities which God hath been pleased every daye more and more to conferre uppon them, and will not exempt yourselves out of the number of those whoe in their zeale to the service of the blood royall doe joyntlie contribute to the assistance and preservation thereof. The reasons are apparant, and the meanes offer themselves to our wishes if it please you to laye hold on them, whereunto I knowe you are well addicted. I have amongst other thinges received chardge from the Kinge my master to desire the Lord Mayor and his brethren the Aldermen of the cittie of London, that, in consideration of the present necessitie of the affaires of my said master, it would please them to furnishe him with the loane of a good somme of money. I finde that they are well disposed that way, yet soe as if they desired to leave a place open for you and others, the well-affectioned of this Kingdome, to come in and concurre with them in soe good a worke; and for example, divers together with those of the cittie have already begun to enter the lists, namely the clergie and many of the nobilitie and others, yea some of the principall Lords have made noe difficultie to embarke themselves therein, and therefore I hope you will not be the last. That which I soe earnestly entreate is on the behalfe of the Kinge my master and of his Queene the onely daughter of the Kinge your soveraigne, the most glorious mother and fruitfull nursery of the royall plants, the onely consideration whereof and of those heavenly blessinges which doe soe clearly appeare in her will incyte you to this holy enterprise, and on the contrary I assure my-selfe the adverse practizes, apprehensions, or suggestions of others will noe waies hinder you, especially when the examples of soe remarkable persons of the kingdome as aforesaid, and the examples of some of the shires, doe already leade and encourage you, as alsoe the entire affection of His Matie himselfe, whereof there can be noe doubt made, it beinge unlikely that His Matie will not hartely desire and consent to that which is for the good of his blood and issue. I cannott therefore but hope well of the reall effects of this overture unto you, beinge for the assistaunce and consolation of those whom I assure myselfe you would not wittingly frustrate of the hope and expectation nor of the good opinion which they have of your affections; but that you will rather oblige them by your present and worthy resolutions herein, whereof I promise you a grateful acknowledgement hereafter under the hands both of the Kinge and Queene of Bohemia, which shall alsoe assure you of the right employment of your favours in their occasions. I will entreate you to communicate this to all parts of your countie as you shall judge it most proper for the advauncement of soe good and acceptable a worke. And soe committinge you to the protection of the Almightye, and prayeing Him soe to direct you and blesse your counsailes, that they maye tend to His Glorie and the good of His chosen, I take my leave and remayne ever your very assured to doe you service.

LOAN TO THE KING OF BOHEMIA.*

A Course resolved for gatheringe of the lone to the Kinge of Bohemia at the assizes at Tanton. 4 August.

1. The justices of peace have expressed there lone under there hands which were present, and 'tis agreed that the sheriffe shall send the paper to those that be absent.

* The ambassador's letter bears date 31 May, 1620, but Camden informs us that it was not until the 28th of that month that Spinola "set down with his army in the Palatinate,

2. For proceedinge with the country 'tis thought fitt that the justices of peace in there limites shall make choise of 2 or 3 sufficient men within each hundred to make known the letters of the Embassador and the Lord Lieutenant to the able men within the hundred, and to receave of them there lone, and bring it to the justices of the limit.

3. When the monyes are collected, 'tis thought fitt that the justices of the limites doe returne their own lone and the country's to the sheriffe with as much speed as convenientlye may be done, takinge a note from him what they have delivered to the sheriffe.

4. 'Tis agreed that the deputye-lieutenants shall acquaynt the L^d Lieutenant with our proceedings forthwith, and desire to know his L^{ps} direction for disposing of the monyes when they shall be gathered.

CORNWALL.

A.D. 1625.

Information regarding a search for arms, made in the house of John Trevelyan,^a Esq^r., inclosed in a letter from the Deputy Lieutenants of Cornwall to the Earl of Pembroke, dated from "Liskerd, 12th Dec^r. 1625."^b

"John Trevilian, Esq^r. of St. Cleder: taken from him a drum and two mens armes, a musket, and a corslet. The drum is left in the hands of William Coryton, Esq^r. one of the Deputy Lieutenants; the musket and the corslet is left in the hands of Christopher Worthyvall, Esq^r. Captaine of that Companye of w^b the said Mr. Trevillian is. Other or more armes we have not found in any of the Papists' houses, or any popishly affected, yet there are in o^{ur} county we conceave neere two hundred p^{ersons} whose names we shalbe readdy

* John Trevelyan, the subject of the following letters and depositions, was son of Peter Trevelyan of Basil, in the parish of St. Cleather, Cornwall, whose grandfather Humfrey was one of the seven sons of John Trevelyan of Nettlecombe and Elizabeth Whalesborough, and brother of George Trevelyan, Chaplain to Henry VIII., some of whose letters appear in the first Part of this collection. He is probably the same Mr. Trevillian, a gentleman of Cornwall, who is mentioned in Whitelock's Memorials, p. 200, Feb. 28, 1645, as having "raised a regiment to join with the Parliament's forces." He married Maria daughter of George Arundell.

The papers are interesting as illustrating the inquisitorial nature of proceedings against Romanists, and more especially perhaps as preserving a letter of the somewhat celebrated Bishop, Joseph Hall.

There was about the same time another Mr. Trevillian, spoken of in the Journal of the House of Commons, iii. 678, 26 October, 1644, as being "a very well-affected gentleman of the county of Devon, who has lost all for his good affection and service to the Parliament;" and it is recommended to the Committee for Sequestrations to provide for him "a house furnished." It was probably this same John Trevelyan who in 1645 afforded a refuge at his house in Devon to Philip Powell, a Roman Catholic priest, who was executed at Tyburn in 1646.—Vide Memoirs of Missionary Priests, 1742, Pt. 2, p. 298, where he is mentioned as "his old friend John Tre——, in the parish of Yearcombe, in the county of Deyon;" and Oliver's History of the Catholic Religion in the counties of Cornwall, Devon, &c. 1857, p. 336.

This John Trevelyan, of Yarnscombe, in the county of Devon, was second son of Anthony Trevelyan, whose grandfather Thomas was third son of John Trevelyan of Nettlecombe, and of Avice Cockworthy, having succeeded to the estate of Yarnscombe from his mother.

May it please your most excelent Matie.

As your humble servants weare performinge the service commaunded by your Maties last fres touchinge the lieutenancye, on the 8th of this present October, this enclosed was brought us from the Right Reverent father in God, the L. We know it to be a greate presumption and bouldnes in us to addresse our fres to yo^r sacred Matie. But the presumptious threaten so much daunger to y^r sacred pson, the Church, and Co^mmonw^{lth} of England, that in our weake judgments we held them fitt for noe eye but y^r owne; for the pson, he is a Recusant convict; And the greatest of that faction in the West; He is a cloase reserved man, and weighes his wordes before he lets them fall, soe as we conjecture that thcare is much more in his hart then on his tounge; He is of a bould and active spirritt, and the witnes (beinge the L. Bishop's chappelaine) seemes to be of worth; upon these grounds we ar thus embouldened to co^mend these passages to yo^r Royall eye; holdinge it the better pte of o^r dutye to be over-fearefull in this kind, then any way remisse.

We thinke it o^r duties also to enforme y^r Matie how we purpose to

I could not but thus suddenly expresse my zeale for the common safety, and care of your indemnity in an occurrent related to mee (this houre) by my Chaplayne Mr. Nansogg. It should seeme he lately acquainted you with certayne dangerous speeches uttered by no meane recusant in the presence of very able witnesses, importing no lesse then the utter and speedy ruine of this whole State and Church: the particulars whereof I have here inclosed. The gentleman is knowne to be such as that, if there were not some great confidence in him of the issue, he neither would nor durst let fall such speeches; the sifting whereof may be the prevention of more mischief then we can apprehend. Contenting my selfe to have layd this earnest charge upon you (since my selfe am not as yet in the commission, at least not sworne in it), I take my leave, and will think long to know the successe of your present and carefull inquisition, who am your much devoted frend,

COMMISSION TO GEORGE TREVELYAN, ESQ.^a

Whereas the safety of the kingdome and his Ma^{ty}s service is much concerned in the carefull choyce of able and sufficient officers to order and regulate the trayned bands of the severall countyes within his Ma^{ty}s dominions in the best and most approved way of military discipline. I have therefore out of his Ma^{ty}s trust reposed in me on that behalfe, and out of a due consideracion of the good fame and constant report your sufficiency and aptnes for such an imployment hath deservedly gained you, fixed upon, and doe by theis make choyce of and appoint you to be Captayne of that troope of horse in ^a This document is indorsed, "Mr. George Trevilian's Commission for the command of a Troope of Horse." This troop formed part of Sir Charles Berkeley's regiment, which troop had previously been commanded by Capt. Thomas Jerrard, deceased.

S^r Charles Berkeleyes regiment in the county of Sommersett, lately commanded by Capt. Thomas Jerrard, deceased. And I doe further in my owne pray and require, but in his Ma^{ts} name strictly charge and command you, to the uttermost of your power, to see the same well ordered and disciplined, in such sort that upon all occasions itt may be fitt and ready for his Ma^{ts} service. In the execucion whereof you are to proceed accordinge to such instruccions and direccions as from time to time from my Deputy Lieuten^{ts} or the Collonell for the sayd regiment shalbe given unto you. Hereof you may not fayle; and this shall be your warr^{tt}. Court at Whitehall, the 12th of March, 1638.

PEMBROKE MONTGOMERY.

To my very loving freind George Trevillian, Esq. Capt. of a troope of horse in S^r Charles Berkley's regiment in the county of Somerset.

COMMISSION OF CHARLES I. TO GEORGE TREVELYAN, ESQ.,^a A.D. 1643.
TO RAISE A REGIMENT OF TWELVE HUNDRED FOOT.

CHARLES R.

CHARLES, by the grace of God King of Great Britaine, France, and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, &c. To our trusty and welbeloved George Trevillian, Esq., greeting. Whereas a great and rebellious army hath beene raysted against Us under the comānd of Robert Devereux, late Earle of Essex, which army hath not onely severall times endeavoured to take Our life from Us in sett battailes, but the same and other forces raysted by divers trayterous and seditious persons under the name of King and Parliament, and cherished and mayneteyned by the disloyall and rebellious citty of London and other parts of the kingdome, have comitted all the acts of outrage, robbery, and murther upon our good subiects throughout the kingdome, and doe still continue the same, and thereby endeavour to effect their damnable designe to destroy Us and Our posterity, and to change the present government both of church and state into anarchy, tyranny, and confusion. For prevention whereof, and for the defence of Our owne royall person and posterity, the true reformed Protestant religion, the lawes of the land, the liberty and propriety of Our subiects, the just priviledges of Parliament, and the defence and security of Our county of Soḿersett, Wee being enforced to have in readynesse divers foote well armed, and furnished with all things necessary for Our service, to be employed therein as Wee shall direct, Wee, therefore, reposeing especiall trust and confidence in your fidelity, diligence, and dexterity in martiall affaires, doe by these p'sents will and require you, And doe hereby give unto you full power and authority for Us and in Our name, and for Our service, to imprest, rayse, enroll, and reteyne, one regiment of twelve hundred foote so furnished and armed as aforesaid, wheresoever you shall be able within Our said county of Soḿersett, who will willingly and voluntarily serve Us for Our pay or wages, as you and they on Our behalfe shall agree. And further Wee do give unto you full power and authority as Colonell them to coḿand, arme, discipline, trayne, and order in warlike manner, and to employ them for the defence and security of that Our county. Willing and coḿanding all officers and souldiers, which by virtue hereof you shall reteyne, you to obey, and readily to receive and accomplish your directions and coḿands in all things hereto apperteyning or necessary to be donne, And you yourselve to observe and follow such orders and directions as from time to time you shall receive from Our selfe, Our Lieutenant Generall of those parts, or other your superior officer or officers. Farther coḿanding the High Sheriffe of that Our county, all maiors, justices of the peace, coḿissioners, and all other Our officers, ministers, and loveing subiects of the said county to be ayding and assisting to you herein, and to all such officers and others as you shall appoint for the farthering and advancement of this Our especiall service; for which this shall be to you and them, and every of them, a sufficient warrant. Given under Our Signe Manuall at Our Court at Oxford, this two and twentieth of March, in the nineteenth yeare of Our Reigne, 1643.

By his Ma^{ties} comãund,

EDW. WALKER.

CAPTAIN SWANLEY ^a TO THE GENTRY OF THE COUNTY OF PEMBROOKE.

A.D. 1643.

GENT.

As in duty bound, I have allwayes in all fidellity highly honoured my Kinge, and ever bine a lover of my Country. Now as I stand engaged, God hath called me to be a servant to both. In discharge of the trust imposed, I am come here to desire your sweete compliance as with me in the preservation of the Gosple in its inherent purity, as allsoe the Kinges honour and the Subject's liberty, a worke that every good Christian ought to be active in, both with the tender of life and fortune; for which yee have the obligation of our Saviour to save you harmelesse, who sayth if any man shall hazard either life or fortune, or what is most deare unto him, "for My sake," shall undoubtedly preserve them. And for your countryes security, you have 3 Kingdomes in the body of the Parliament engaged. Now, why stand yee gazing like the timorous Israelites over the host of the Philistines? Did not a little youth, David by name, slay their champion, and overthrow that idolatrous hoast? And shall a Jesuiticall and a Popish armye, with a Malignant party, as odious in the sight of God as that cursed Philisten, make you dismayd? Noe, be comforted, God and the state hath preserved you a more visible menes of deliverance in sendinge this fleete, consistinge of 12 warlicke shippes, with land forces and store of ammuni-

^a This letter of Captain Swanley has been printed in Fenton's Pembrokeshire, 1811, Appendix, p. 27, but apparently from a less correct copy than the present (which is contemporary), and wanting the date and superscription. We are not aware that the answer has appeared in print before, and it certainly appears to be worth preserving.

tion, whereof the major part is not as yet come in, occasioned by fowle weather, but undoubtedly will arrive. And by God's assistance I am confident, that if the Gentry of this Countye will joyne with me in our endeavours, we shall drayne that Malignant route, who seeke to ensnare this great nation under the yoke of the antichristian beast, not only out of this county but consequently out of the dominion of Wales. Wherefore I shall desire the Gentry of this Countrey to give me theire resolution. And if any of them shall not comply, let not such looke for any favour from me, if it shall please God to give us the victory, but what God's enemyes and destroyers of theire countrey deserve. And let not any man's heart be dismayd, for God hath promised to be with His in his preservinge power eaven unto the end of the world; to whose protection I comitt you all, and, expectinge your answer, I remayne and rest ever ready to engage my life with you in the defence of this greate worke,

RICH: SWANLEY.

From aboard His Ma^{ty's} ship the Leopard, this 25th of January, 1643.

For the Right Worshipful the Knights and Gent. of the County of Pembroke these be presented.

A.D. 1643.

THE ANSWER.

SIR,

To your letter directed to the Knights and Gent. of the County of Pembroke, we returne this answer. For your much magnified fidelity to our gracious Sovereigne we should be glad you could produce better testimony then your owne, and cleerer evidence then your spotted Leopard. For ourselves, we conceive our judgments noe lesse undervalued then our consciences, by youre imagininge the least probability we could be deluded by that stale theme, or affrighted by that citty bugbeare Popery. The disguise of religion is too longe worne, and become transparent eaven unto meane intellectualls. We desire to assert the Protestant sincerity in our lives, and to act what you professe only, beinge no otherwise interested in your blacke aspersions (Jesuitical, Malignant, Antichristian), then by sorrow that you ar as much estranged from equity as truth. Yet it is our solace that your callumnyes ar not our crimes, and our wish that you did noe lesse detest the practice then the name of a jesuite. As for the devinitye of your letter, we cannot apprehend it without horror, to see sedition varnisht with scripture, and God blasphemed with reverence. But your menaces have wrought in us noe other impression than contempt, and we had rather expresse our disdayne by the sword then pen. And you may rest assured, that if you be soe far wantinge in peace and loyalty as to invade our country, we will not be soe far wantinge in courage and duty as not to defend it agaynst all hostile attempts under what sacred maske whatsoever. This is our firme resolution, which we ar ready to seale with our blood.

ADDITIONAL NOTE on the last document printed in Part I. p. 218:—

This Indulgence was evidently published before the suppression of monasteries, probably about the time of the accession of Bishop Veysey to the see of Exeter (1519). Vide Oliver's History of the Cathedral of Exeter, p. 249.

The type, carefully compared with documents in the British Museum, agrees with that of Pynson, who printed in this country from 1493 to 1531. Jugge may have used the same type, but he printed after the suppression, and therefore could not have been the printer of this paper.

REPORT OF THE COUNCIL
THE CAMDEN SOCIETY,

ELECTED 2nd MAY, 1862.

THE Council of the Camden Society, elected on the 2nd May, 1862, regret to announce that during their year of office the Society has lost by death the following Members:—

SAMUEL BELTZ, Esq. F.S.A.

THOMAS BROADWOOD, Esq.

The Right Hon. the EARL of ELLESMERE.

The Right Hon. Sir GEO. CORNEWALL LEWIS, Bart. M.P.

The Right Hon. LORD MONSON, F.S.A.

JOHN W. PARKER, Esq.

EDWARD SWAINE, Esq.

CLEMENT TUDWAY SWANSTON, Esq. Q.C. F.S.A.

EDWARD TAYLOR, Esq. Gresham Professor of Music.

Sir ROBERT THROCKMORTON, Bart.

WILLIAM WHATELEY, Esq. Q.C.

The Council still feel it necessary to urge upon the Members the desirableness of bringing under the notice of their friends the claims of the Camden Society to the support of all lovers of historical knowledge. If the list of Members could be filled up, there never was a time when there was a greater opportunity of making valuable additions to Historical Literature than at the present moment.

The following Works have been added to the List of suggested Publications:—

Vindication of the Government of Queen Elizabeth in the matter of the Execution of Mary Queen of Scots. From a MS. in the possession of Sir THOMAS WINNINGTON, Bart. M.P.

Letters of Charles II. From the Originals in the possession of the Marquess of BRISTOL, President of the Camden Society.

The volumes printed for the past year have been—

I. Lists of Foreign Protestants and Aliens resident in England, 1618—1688. From Returns in the State Paper Office. Edited by W. DURRANT COOPER, Esq. F.S.A.

No work issued from the press for many years past has thrown so much light upon the history of families in the Middle Classes of this country. A glance at the many familiar names contained in its very full Index will sufficiently prove its genealogical importance.

The next publication, which is just ready for delivery to the Members, will be—

II. Wills from Doctors' Commons. Edited by JOHN GOUGH NICHOLS, Esq. F.S.A., and JOHN BRUCE, Esq. F.S.A.

The Council refer with great satisfaction to this volume, as proving the success of the endeavours which they have been making for many years to render the materials for our social history, which are stored up at Doctors' Commons, available for literary purposes.

So long ago as on the 26th March, 1848, the Director and Secretary of this Society had an interview, under the authority of the Council, with the Registrars of the Prerogative Court, with the view of procuring some facilities for editing a volume then in course of preparation by the Society. The Registrars declined to comply with the wishes of the Council, and a Memorial in the nature of an appeal having been addressed to the then Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Howley, the Council were informed by his Grace that he had no power to interfere.

Subsequent applications for some slight modifications of the stringent rules which limited the use of the Documents in the Prerogative Court were addressed to the late Archbishop of Canterbury and to the Ecclesiastical Courts Commissioners, but were attended with no better results.

On the institution of the Court of Probate the Council, supported by the Society of Antiquaries, and by many eminent literary persons, renewed their endeavours. Sir Cresswell Cresswell, to whom the application was addressed, admitted the principle that documents which had none but literary uses ought to be accessible to literary inquirers; and, as soon as space could be found, Sir Cresswell made arrangements for permitting literary inquirers to consult all wills previous to the year 1700. He also placed this department of the business of the registry of the Court of Probate under the charge of Mr. Paris, a gentleman to whose courtesy to all applicants, and desire to assist their inquiries, the Council are glad to have an opportunity of bearing willing testimony.

With the view of making generally known the importance of the new source of literary and historical information which has thus been laid open, the Council gladly availed themselves of a proposal to publish a Volume of Wills from Doctors' Commons. In this volume it has been endeavoured to give specimens of the Wills of many classes of persons;—Wills of Members of the Royal Family; Wills of Eminent Prelates and Noblemen; Wills of persons who played important parts during the great

Civil War; Wills of well-known Poets, Painters, and Musicians; Wills of Divines and Philosophers; and, lastly, Wills of some distinguished Ladies.

The volume will be very shortly in the hands of the Members; and the Council trust it will be acceptable not only on account of its own intrinsic merits, but as an evidence and memorial, that, after exertions continued for nearly five-and-twenty years, free access has at length been obtained for literary inquirers to nearly all the Records of the kingdom.

The Society will probably think it right to express by a vote of thanks their sense of the public conduct of Sir Cresswell Cresswell, and to transmit with their vote a copy of the printed volume of Wills. They will also thankfully recognise in like manner the kindness of Lord Chief Justice Erle in giving the Editors the use of a transcript of the Will of John Hampden; and that of Francis Kyffin Lenthall, Esq. for the use of a transcript of the Will of his ancestor, the well-known Speaker.

With the volume of Wills will be delivered to the Members, as a third publication for the present year, a second volume of Trevelyan Papers, edited, from the Muniments of the Trevelyan family, by our late Treasurer John Payne Collier, Esq. This volume brings the selection from these curious papers down to 1643.

In concluding their Report, the Council would refer to the continual proof of the usefulness of the Society which is given in the quotation of its books in all recently published historical works. It is now scarcely possible to take up a new historical publication without observing how much the author's researches have been assisted by this Society. A striking instance of this occurred a year or two ago in Mr. Motley's History of the Netherlands; the same thing is found in Mr. Gardiner's recently published History of England during James I. Several of the publications of the Society have been of material service to him, and are continually referred to with due acknowledgment. Such circumstances constitute a strong encouragement to the Society to perseverance, and will prove to persons who are desirous to study the foundations of our history how necessary it is to consult the publications of the Camden Society.

By order of the Council,

JOHN BRUCE, Director.

WILLIAM J. THOMS, Secretary.

15th April, 1863.

REPORT OF THE AUDITORS.

WE, the Auditors appointed to audit the Accounts of the Camden Society, report to the Society, that the Treasurer has exhibited to us an account of the Receipts and Expenditure from the 15th of April, 1862, to the 15th of April, 1863, and that we have examined the said accounts, with the vouchers relating thereto, and find the same to be correct and satisfactory.
